Nemours

'Fighting Finn' update

Orlando, Fla. (October 7, 2019) Nemours Children's Health System follows Christopher and Jessica Hill's baby, known as 'Fighting Finn,' who was born prematurely at 24 weeks and weighed barely a pound. He recently had his first followup appointment after being discharged from Nemours Children's Hospital, where he spent 113 days in the NICU. Video interviews include his parents, and Dr. Darlene Calhoun, division chief of neonatology.
Downloadable video is available.

Watch national news coverage of his story:

- "Good Morning America": https://www.goodmorningamerica.com/family/story/pound-preemie-fought-100-days-nicu-heads-home-65688883
- CBS News: https://www.cbsnews.com/video/1-pound-baby-in-nicu-for-113-days-finally-goes-home/
- "Inside Edition": https://www.insideedition.com/fighting-finn-baby-born-at-only-1-pound-is-finally-home-from-hospital-56557

For further information: Margot Winick, media@nemours.org, 407-650-7676

Additional assets available online: Video (1)

https://nemours.mediaroom.com/news-releases?item=122770